

Inside North Fork road reopens

Posted Aug. 15, 2009—The Inside North Fork Road has reopened according to a July 10 news release from Glacier National Park. Although travelers are warned that they should be ready with handsaws to deal with downed trees, officials estimate that the road can be traversed in as little as two hours under the right conditions.