

Wolves poached on the North Fork

Updated Nov. 4, 2009—Three wolves were poached on the North Fork in late October. Randy Houk from Columbia Falls pleaded guilty for two of them and was fined a total of $1,135.

Montana Fish, Wildlife and Parks is offering up to a $1,000 reward for information on the shooting death of the third poached wolf found on Oct. 25 in the Red Meadow drainage. If you have any information regarding this third incident or any suspicious activity that might be related to poaching, please call 1-800-TIPMONT to leave an anonymous tip.

For more information, see the full story in the Hungry Horse News dated Oct. 28. For more information about the effects of wolf poaching, see an article in the Missoulian dated Nov. 1.